

Gordon Lightfoot

La Cave
Cleveland, Ohio
1965

Possibly the earliest live recordings of Gordon Lightfoot as a solo artist, this was recorded around the time he recorded his first full album on United Artists records which was released in January 1966. These recordings were released split in two, incomplete at the now very hard to find bootleg albums "Yellow Bird" and "Get Together" on Koala records. Lightfoot sounds a bit nervous sometimes and even forgot some of his lyrics on the first attempt of Ribbon Of Darkness. The overall sound quality is very good for an old recording like this and it's great to hear these songs from his first and, in my opinion, best record he made.
